THE PACIFIC Commercial Advertiser.

THURSDAY, SEPTEMBER 3. The News.

By the arrival of the Comet we have received no very startling news, yet what has reached us shows that every thing is being done to prepare the different Northern armies for an advance into the enemy's country. The iron-clads and blockading fleet are doing good work on the coast and inland waters.

The first item which will attract the attention of the careful reader of the telegraphic dispatches, is the able manner in which the Union cavalry is crippling the Southern cause by cutting different lines of railroad and destroying the rolling stock. The Richmond papers chronicle the capture of forty locomotives and several trains of cars at Jackson, Miss. A cavalry expedition leaving Newbern, N. C .. taking a northwest course, strikes the Wilmington and Weldon Railroad where it crosses the Tar river at Rocky Mount, and destroys two miles of the road, and does other damage of the most destructive kind, and reaches the Union camp again without loss. The Virginia and Tennessee line was cut some time since, leaving but one line by which Bragg might move to assist Lee; and by this mail the news comes that a cavalry expedition, starting from Charleston on the Kanawba river, taking a southerly course through the mountains, comes on a branch of the same road at Wytheville, Wythe County, Virginia, and after a smart action with a body of rebels, in which they took a number of prisoners, do great damage to the road and return in safety to the Union lines. leaving but two branches of the road which connects the Southwest and Gulf States by a circuitous route with Richmond still intact, and they pass through Greensboro and Raleigh in North Carolina, a state by no means strong for the rebellion.

From Charleston we hear of stirring work. Fort Wagner on Morris Island is receiving the attention of General Gilmore and the iron clad fleet. Two desperate assaults had been made on it, neither of which were successful. Beauregard had made a powerful attack on the forces under General Terry on James Island, but had been repulsed with great slaughter. As long as the Union forces have a foothold on Morris and James Islands and with the iron clads in front, it will be next to impossible to reinforce Fort Wagner to any extent. The last advices show that General Gilmore had been largely reinforced and bad succeeded in planting a heavy battery within 300 yards of Fort Wagner and a mile and a quarter of Fort Sumter. It seems merely a question of time regarding the capture of Fort Wagner. The negro regiment alluded to by our Boston correspondent Nuuanu, was in one of the assaults made on Fort Wagner. and had every officer killed but six, while large numbers of them were made prisoners. discovered by the rebels they concentrated all their energies on this one devoted regiment and almost annihilated it. The balance of the regiment fell back only when the rest of the line had done so.

From Rosecrans we hear of his resuming his forward movement on the 14th of July. General Stanley, his chief of cavalry, made a dash on Huntsville, Alabama, and captured 300 rebels and horses enough to mount a regiment. The rebels fear an attempt will be made to cut the Chattanooga and Atlanta line of railroad. The last advices report Rosecrans as waiting for reinforcements from Grant.

From Grant's and Banks' commands we hear but little. A conference between the commanders had taken place at Vicksburg. Rebel statements report that a certain Dick Taylor had whipped Banks, but gives no particulars. A movement on Mobile is probably Grant's next

Between Grant and Rosecrans the rebel Generals Johnston, Ruggles and Chalmers lay scattered over a large portion of the northern and middle part of Mississippi, principally at Bran-don, Meridian and Okoolona, ready to move towards Mobile or to the eastward.

John Morgan and the balance of his command were brought to grief on the 26th of July at New Lisbon, Columbiana Co., Ohio, by General Shackleford, and sent North to be locked up until it is ascertained whether Jeff. Davis intends respecting the United States uniform on both white and black soldiers.

From Meade and Lee nothing of importance comes to us. Lee and Longstreet have massed their forces south of Culpepper and at Fredericksburg while Meade has his headquarters at Warrenton, his cavalry under Buford being en-camped on the south side of the Rappahannock, near Brandy Station.

Lee is asking for reinforcements from Jeff. Davis, and receiving assurances from that archtraitor that it is impossible to comply with his request. Lee in reply assures him that with his present force he cannot hold his position and must give up the country north of the James River; and to cap the whole, the M bile News contains the following paragraph: "We have numerous reports horribly detrimental to the character of the patriotism of the people in many parts of Alabama and Mississippi; some of them too disgraceful to print." And the Raleigh (N. C.) Standard "denounces Jeff. Davis as a repudiator, in whom no confidence can be placed and whose efforts to establish a Southern Confederacy will be a failure." For this language the Richmond Enquirer calls upon Jeff. Davis to suppress the paper without the assent of the Supreme Court of North Carolina. The Standard replies that Gov. Vance will stand by him and the Court also, and that force will be met by force. What an exemplification we have here of the beauties (?) of the States' right doctrine. While this state of affairs exists in the rebelliious states, we are told that Meade is being reinforced at the rate of 1000 men a day, and that Kentucky has elected a Union Governor by 20,000 majority. Reports are current in Washington that Halleck has received notice of a desire on the part of the South to treat for peace. We hardly credit it, however, but under the present circumstances it seems as though it would be a very sensible move on the part of the

For European news we can do no better than copy the following from the Sacramento Union. European advices to the 26th of July have been received. The victories of the Union arms have had their effect in England. The "hopeless" side of the contest has suddenly shifted Southward. An anti-Southern Association has been organized at Manchester. In Parliament, Richard Cotden, a faithful friend to the United States, has called the Palmerston Ministry to account for its policy of mock neutrality, and warned them that if certain vessels were permitted to leave Liverpool the United States would respond by a declaration of war. The manner in which this announcement was received by Palmerston indicates no disposition to encounter that peril. True, the wilv old Vi count attempted to defend his policy. He couldn't see any di erence in principle between selling arms to the Government of the United States

-a recognized power, with which Great Britain maintains regular diplomatic relations-and fitting out such vessels as the Alabama in English ports for the benefit of a rebellion against that power and to prey upon the commerce of a friendly nation. Keen eyed Palmerston! But the usually belligerent Premier, instead of responding defiantly to the menace of war, condescended to promise that the Foreign Enlistment Act should be rigidly enforced. There will be no trouble between us and England until we are ready to present that little bill of costs. Meanwhile at London, Paris and Vienna, the teeling against Russia is becoming very bitter, and a war is regarded as a highly probable resource to adjust the Polish difficulty. The opening gun of such a conflict will announce the resurrection of Poland, give a gleam of hope to the patriot party of Mexico and strike down the last intervention castle in the air conceived by the Confederate imagination.

Louis Napoleon seems to have played out his hand in Mexico. Via Havana comes intelligence that the empire was proclaimed in that country on the 10th of July. Maximilian of A stria is to be the Emperor, if he will accept the position; if not, the French Emperor will nominate some other person-possibly Prince Napoleon. This is the programme originally foreshadowed when the conquest of Mexico was un dertaken. The organs of the Emperor then strenu ously denied that such a project was entertained, The strongest assurances were given to the leading Powers of the world that in sending an army to Mexico, the French Autocrat contemplated nothing more than securing indemnity for certain outrages upon the rights of French subjects, and obtaining guarantees against the repetition of such acts. All attempts to interfere with the free choice of a Government by the Mexicans were expressly disclaimed. In what light does the ruler of France now appear to all honorable men? Among the disciples of Talleyrand in Europe, the matter in which this game has been played will be esteemed evidence of consummate diplomatic skill. Honest, truth loving men, however, have a sharp, stinging word for that kind of diplomacy. But what else could be expected of the "Man of December," who solemnly swore to uphold the French Republic, and overthrow it by force before the oath was cold upon his lips? From the date of the proclamation of the empire in Mexico, a struggle between France and the United States becomes a question of opportunity. Let it be postponed for six months, and we shall be ready to enter a weighty protest against the building of a European throne on the ruins of an adjacent republic.

Later advices via St. Louis, under date of Aug. 7th, give the impression that the Polish question will be settled amicably.
